Song of the Day

WHITE CHRISTMAS

I'm dreaming of a bright Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know
When the love ones were healthy
And the young ones play freely
And brother Rotarians all aglow

I'm dreaming of a bright Christmas
With every Christmas card I write
May your days be merry and bright
And this Christmas turns to be alright.

(Interlude)

I said, I'm dreaming of a bright Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know
When the love ones were healthy
And the young ones play freely
And brother Rotarians all aglow

I'm dreaming of a bright Christmas
With every Christmas card I write
May your days be merry and bright
And this Christmas turns to be alright.

(adaptation from White Christmas by Rtn. Arnel Estaniel)

From the President

Pres. Garrick Ang

Pangkat Six kicks off this month with the formation of a Committee for the Christmas Party which will take place on December 13, 2021. It will be a hybrid setup via zoom and face to face in Valle Verde Country Club. There will be a recorded video performance for each pangkat and a photo contest using smart phone. PP John already ordered the lechon and PP Vic Lim will bring the best wine. No politics and campaigning please as we might get into trouble with our Comelec Chairman PP Celso.

It is with great pride that we congratulate PRID Raffy Garcia for a very successful Rotary Presidential Conference Manila 2021. We showed the world that we can put together a world-class virtual conference with world-class entertainment.

Later this afternoon, we will have the very first Rotary Club of Pasig "Pagpupugay Sa Kabayanihan Ng Mga Pulis (The Ignacio Gimenez Award). It seeks to recognize and award the outstanding policemen of the Pasig Police PNP who through the performance of their duties and in their personal lives have demonstrated the value of service, integrity, courage and respect for the law.

Let us all give Rtn Chony Gimenez a round of applause for initiating such a noble project of honoring our law enforcers which is one of the 7 pillars of Rotary, that of promoting peace and order and the theme of Rotary year 2021-22 Serve to Change Lives.

Also to President-Elect Bong Paloma and PP Peter John Javier for managing the project and to Rtn Bart Ronquillo and PP Rel

From the President

Pres. Garrick Ang

Continuation 1.

Gomez for the special trophies. Thank you for the full support of PP Ogie Lim and the whole Pangkat Tres who made this project possible. You're the best!

Pasig, our beloved city with our very own communities and our family together with the leadership and good governance of our Honorable Mayor and Rtn Vico Sotto and the legislative support of Congressman and Rtn Roman Romulo, is on a momentum to push forward. And with our Pasig Police organization and the Rotary Club of Pasig working together toward “Iba na Pasig Ngayon”, iba na talaga! A best city in the country and probably in the world. Sulong Pasig

Next Thursday, December 9, 2021 will be our election day when we will elect our next and future leaders of RC Pasig.

Keep safe and stay healthy, fellow Rotarians.

Garrick

Rotary Notes

PP Benny P. De Guzman

When a Charter Member goes who gave our club good members during his stay in the club, one is saddened realizing that Romy or the other about 90 members and former members have gone ahead. He rose from the ranks and retired as VP from a tire company. Romy Bernesa Manuel, age 94, was called home. Though he had colon cancer and most of his vital organs were already affected, he went without much pain. He must have been married to spouse Remy Galsim about 70 years. He had two nephews in our club, the brothers PP Ed and Ray Bolinao whose mother was his sister. We will miss your laughter and your brocolli jokes. Rest in peace.

We congratulate PRID Raffy for the very successful RPC21 Manila that showed how well he can organize a virtual meeting of that size. To think on the side he was monitoring the birthday of Lady Minda.

Many PPs of other clubs were asking me about the plans of PP and PSAG Ramy for the district governorship, PP Bobby Zamora of RC Caloocan, son of a distinguished PDG is also being talked about. Well, in the viber group of the Noble Men, he was called a DGNE. But January pa ang nominating committee. Abangan. Ramy after all, is the son of a much accomplished father in the world of Rotary. Forgive my saying so as this may be read by other Rotarians. I can speak my mind but I cannot do so in my home. Like many of us?

An Alpeo Piedad is battling for our Alex but there are not known other noisemakers to create more attention for Alex.

Our outstanding police awards program have major parts for Mayor Vico and Congressman Roman but our Pres. Garrick is for closing remarks lang. Rtn Chony Gimenez, the project proponent and PE Bong have better exposures

Many had forgotten that before this award, the police department of our beloved city had a blood letting project that even if not really unique, gave substance to our medical center for the community. PRID Raffy and HOF/PP Jess are the leading figures in effectively reaching out.

If you missed the keynote speech of our VP Leni during the awarding of the Magsaysay Awards for this year, ask where you can get one. You will not think of anybody else for the presidency. With no notes, she called and enumerated the achievements of the Asian awardees. The lone Filipino awardee who very clearly had his speech prepared for him, and he took the kilometric read to repeat many major points, is the one that PP Henry should consult on mangrove propagation to stop the floods and improve crop production. This can truly be a club project and this early, PE Bong can ask PP Henry to prepare and chair.

Our two defenders of their respective classifications, baby Rtns Charlie and Gene have shown that the sponsors did very well in searching quality members for our club. With their rich backgrounds they can readily help in many of our projects.

We are going to have an earlier Christmas party, May our spouses join to show how meaningfully we are doing our best to effectively reach out. Not only in the scholarships but in many other areas to show we care for our community, Father and son PPs Peter and John are the main guys attending to the Sunday mass at 11:30 am at the Tanay Deck. The mass goers are few yet. Properly distanced and breezy, why don't you guys give this a try?

YOUNG UGANDAN ACTIVIST SPEAKS OUT ABOUT CLIMATE CHANGE IN AFRICA

Vanessa Nakate, a 24-year-old climate activist from Uganda, made international headlines after the World Economic Forum's 2020 meeting in Davos, Switzerland. But the story wasn't what she said about the climate crisis. The story was that her name and photo were missing from media coverage of the event.

Nakate was one of five young climate activists, including Time magazine's 2019 person of the year, Greta Thunberg, who had participated in a press conference at the event. But the photo that the Associated Press released to global news outlets included only the four activists from Europe; Nakate, the only Black climate activist in the group, had been cropped out. A video that she made in response went viral, and Nakate has since made it a personal crusade to amplify voices that are not being heard in the climate movement.

“Being cropped out of that photo changed me. I became bolder and more direct in how I talk about the climate crisis and racism and how I articulate the many ways families are being impacted right now,” she writes in her book, A Bigger Picture: My Fight to Bring a New African Voice to the Climate Crisis, which is being released on 2 November. “I decided, from my perspective as a young African woman, that I would dedicate as much of my time as possible to addressing the many interlocking facets of the climate crisis, environmental justice, and gender discrimination — and to do so without apology or fear of erasure.”

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 1.

Nakate asserts that voices sharing real experiences are there, but aren't being listened to or amplified.

“I don't have full knowledge of what our fellow activists are seeing unfold in their countries, in Kenya or India or South Africa. I may have known that Zimbabwe faced a water crisis, but I didn't know how valuable water was until I talked to an activist from there.”

Although the African continent is responsible for a mere 3 percent of global CO2 emissions in recent decades, Africans are suffering from brutal effects. Nakate's home of Uganda has experienced floods, landslides and droughts. A locust invasion throughout East Africa devastated food resources. Rising lakes contaminated water resources while others shrunk to 1/10th their size from 50 years ago.

“We cannot have climate justice if some people are being left behind. We cannot have climate justice if the most affected communities are not being listened to.”

On her path to becoming a climate powerhouse, Nakate was influenced by her father, Paul Mugambe, a longtime Rotary member. As president of the Rotary Club of Bugolobi in 2017-18, Mugambe helped coordinate a five-year project, Mission Green, in which clubs in District 9211 (Uganda and Tanzania) planted trees in communities across their district. (In photos from the 2019 United Nations climate talks in Madrid, where she was invited to speak, Nakate was wearing a Mission Green polo shirt that her father had given her.)

Walking the Avenues

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 2.

“Watching my dad as a leader of Mission Green sowed a seed that made me decide to be a voice of change,” she tells Rotary magazine. “His courage and his action inspired me to find my voice and to stand up for what I believe is important and what is needed in society.”

Galvanized by the tree-planting project, Nakate decided to embark on an environmental project of her own as she finished her degree in business administration from Makerere University in Kampala. As she researched the challenges that people in her community were facing, she was surprised to discover that climate change was at the heart of many of them. In January 2019, she began protesting at public sites around Kampala, demanding climate action as part of the global Fridays for Future movement begun by Thunberg in Sweden a few months before. Nakate later founded the Rise Up Movement as a platform for African voices in the global climate change discussion. On the grassroots level, Nakate has also worked to install solar panels and eco-friendly stoves in schools.

Nakate emphasizes the importance of including local voices during Rotary projects to provide a sense of accountability and community involvement but also to ensure a project continues once the project team leaves.

“When community members are involved in the implementation, they’re not just receiving the project, they’re also receiving education about the project. Then when you leave, there are people who can still manage that project so that it can continue to sustain the community.”

Walking the Avenues

PP Jun C. Zafra

Continuation 3.

Nakate encourages Rotary members to use their platforms to raise awareness of the climate crisis and share the work being done.

“Every activist has a story to tell, every story has a solution, and every solution can change a life.” She also suggests supporting the grassroots projects that activists are doing in their communities. “It doesn’t matter how small a project or activity is. If I’m doing something, and you’re doing something, and another person is doing something — if millions of us are doing projects in our communities — if we put them together, we will change the world.”

Interestingly, Nakate notes that girls and women are disproportionately affected by the climate crisis. In some countries, when climate disasters cause families to lose everything, male children are prioritized for school and the girls have to drop out. This increases risk of early marriage, as well as being the primary providers-traveling long distanced to collect food and water for their families, exposing them to disease and gender violence.

“Surely this is what Rotary International means — to be people of action,” Nakate said in a speech at the 2021 Rotary Convention. “So let’s stop talking and start taking action. And the action must start today.”
